

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. GOLD MEDAL, GRAND, SQUARE AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES

Are now acknowledged the best instruments in America, as well as in Europe, having taken

TWENTY-SIX FIRST PREMIUMS, GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS,

At the Principal Fairs held in this country within the last seven years, and in addition thereto, they were awarded a

FIRST PRIZE MEDAL

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION IN LONDON, 1862,

FOR

Powerful, Clear, Brilliant and Sympathetic Tone,

With excellence of workmanship, as shown in Grand and Square Pianos.

There were 269 Pianos, from all parts of the world, entered for competition, and the special Correspondent of the Times says:

"Messrs. Steinways' indorsement by the Jurors is emphatic, and stronger, and more to the point than that of any European maker.

"This greatest triumph of American Pianofortes in England has caused a sensation in musical circles throughout the continent, and as a result the Messrs. Steinway are in constant receipt of orders from Europe, thus inaugurating a new phase in the history of American Pianofortes, by creating in them an article of export."

PREFACE.

WE herewith present our Directory for 1864. The number of names published this year is nearly 24,500, or about 500 more only than were published last year. The Directory for 1861 contained about 18,200 names; for 1862 about 21,800; for 1863 nearly 24,000, and for 1864 about 24,500. The small increase noted over 1863 may perhaps be accounted for by the fact that our canvassers in many of the wards found considerable difficulty in procuring names, and in many cases they were refused outright, under the impression that the names were being registered with a view to a draft for the army! We presume this impression has caused a large deficiency of names in our Directory—but as they do not probably constitute the business portion—no particular loss will occur to the business man. We should like to see a careful canvass made for our city—and respectfully suggest to our Board of Trade the propriety of procuring a full and thorough exhibit of the actual population of Buffalo, as this will never be done except by private enterprise. By the usual mode of computation, that is multiplying the number of names by $4\frac{1}{2}$, our population would foot up a little over 110,000—we think it is nearer 120,000.

Among the valuable papers presented in the Directory for 1864, will be found the capital address on the "Physiognomy of Buffalo," by Rev. GEORGE W. HOSMER, D. D., and the paper on the "Lake Commerce," prepared by E. P. DORR, Esq., both of which were read before the Buffalo Historical Society. The usual amount of miscellaneous statistical matter has been collated with much care, and we think the present volume will bear favorable comparison with any of its predecessors.

We do not think we have succeeded in making a perfect Directory—nor do we ever expect to accomplish this. We feel confident that we have used our best efforts, and think our volume will be found useful and tolerably correct. The price of the Directory has been advanced this year to Three Dollars, an advance of 20 per cent. over last year's price, and by no means equal to the general advance we are compelled to pay for labor, paper, type, ink, &c., and yet we are sorry to say this advance in price has excited much oppugnation on the part of some who have heretofore subscribed for our work—in some cases to the extent of declining to subscribe for our Directory. To such, however, as have kindly appreciated our labors, we tender our thanks, and trust to meet them annually for many years to come.

THE PHYSIOGNOMY OF BUFFALO:

THE ANNUAL ADDRESS

DELIVERED BEFORE THE BUFFALO HISTORICAL SOCIETY, JAN. 13, 1864.

BY GEORGE W. HOSMER.

MEMBERS OF THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY, AND LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

My address must be historical; it shall be chiefly pertinent to the rise, growth, and character of our city; my subject is the Physiognomy of Buffalo.

But in times like these, when momentous history is being made, and we are all so anxiously looking upon passing events, and straining forward to descry coming destinies,—our threatened nationality to be maintained and liberty secured,—our wealth and ourselves held ready for the public need,—our young men to be given up if their country calls them,—the dead to be mourned, and the living, in perils of warfare, to be followed with painful apprehensions; amidst such experiences, it is not easy to reverse the machinery, and turning back, leave the mighty crowd of daily events, and content oneself with gathering traditions and memories, and picturing the past. And yet good may come from occasional diversion of interest; the balance and health of our faculties are sometimes lost by long and intense concentration. When we grow feverish with anxiety, impatient with what must be borne, it may do us good to wrench the mechanism, and turn backward for a little while; by no means to neglect our duties in the present, no, not for an hour, but to maintain true poise and soundness of life, and have ourselves in readiness for right decisions and strenuous action.

Once wrested away from passing events, we soon find satisfaction in searching, and picturing to ourselves, the beginnings and progress of customs, institutions, and society,—from the oak back to the acorn,—from the Amazon back to its everlasting snow-drift fountains,—from these United States to those frail tempest-tossed vessels that felt their way to Virginia, to Massachusetts, to New York.

A few weeks ago, I was in a smart young town of Michigan, scarcely thirty years old, which is rapidly assuming the airs of a city; and in the house of one of the first settlers, I saw two pictures; rude enough they were, and yet there was nature in them, and manifold suggestion. The artist was among the early settlers. One picture represented the first three or four cabins in Kalamazoo; women and children about the doors; the first doctor, on horseback, talking with a man at his cabin door, probably giving him a prescription for fever and ague, and ready to ride far and near to forest homes, to keep souls and bodies from shaking asunder; and in the distance was seen the good Indian missionary, coming on his mule to welcome the settlers, and raise the voice of prayer and worship in their new home. The other picture was of the first trial by jury in that county, in a log cabin. There were the Judges, the Sheriff, the Lawyers, the Jury, the parties concerned.

These pictures seized my imagination; from those solid blocks of stores and dwellings, and all the bustling life, I was back with the Romulus and Remus of the settlement, suckled by the wolf of savagery and hardship,—with those men and women who there gave themselves, like all first settlers, to win for their successors one of the thriftiest towns in the fairest country anywhere to be seen. Would that a painter had been here with our Romulus of Buffalo, Mr. Joseph Ellicott, to show him to us as he rode on horseback with Mrs. James Brisbane in 1802. Through the forest trees, not far from where we are now, he pointed to the Lake and River seen through the leaves, and assured her that a great city must arise here. We should like another picture of him standing by his compass in what now is Main street, in front of the Churches; so confident is he that commerce must come here and pour out her horn of plenty, that he has resolved to lay out a city; so delighted is he with the grandeur of the situation, that he thinks he will make his home here: he selects for himself a noble mapor, one hundred acres of land, between Eagle and Swan streets, and from Main nearly to Jefferson street—almost enough for a principality in Germany—and determines to build upon the western front looking towards the Lake; so here, upon what is to be the site of his house, he stands by his compass, indicating the lines which are now our streets—Main street running north and south upon the crown of land; Church street directly front from his door to the water; Erie street to the mouth of the Creek, where commerce must come; Niagara street to Black Rock Ferry, which was a great institution in the early day; and so on to the completion of the plan.

Mr. Ellicott, in laying out our city, had large ideas, and worked upon a grand scale. There is originality in the plan. He did not bring a map of New York, or Boston, or Albany, and lay it down here; he wrought upon the inspiration of a magnificent hope, and we are greatly indebted to him for the open, handsome face of our city.

It is reported that Mr. Ellicott said, "God had made Buffalo, and he must try to make Batavia." God did make the place and its surroundings; the wooded ridge gently sloping towards the sun—the Lake stretching far away to the west, and pouring its unceasing flood along the majestic Niagara close by—the Canada shore—the Chautauqua and Cattaraugus hills—and the high lands of Evans, Aurora, and Wales—all together, as seen from the Reservoir on Niagara street, is a noble panorama. I love to take strangers to see it. God made these surroundings and back-ground to relieve and set off our city's face, and He gives the contour of the physiognomy; but particular features are defined, and expression is given, by the streets and squares. Philadelphia, with its checker-board arrangement, looks set, precise, demure. Boston Common, and the newly made parts of that city, are very beautiful, but the most of its features are painfully contracted and snarled up. The face of New York is much too long for its breadth, and the forehead is still enlarging into monstrous proportions; cerebral diseases may be fear'd. State street in Albany, and Capitol Square at its head, are like the fine nose and imperial brow of a noble face; but many of the features of Albany are cramped and distorted, as if the old builders, remembering little Holland, had still felt pinched for room, and so lived under the hill, fighting against the floods of the Hudson, as their fathers had fought against the Zuyder Zee, instead of stretching over the sightly summits.

Our city has no neighboring hills, like Albany and Cincinnati, to heighten expression; but its plan and streets, for beauty, health and convenience, I think, are unrivalled. There is enough irregularity to prevent tiresome monotony, and not enough to create confusion. Mr. Ellicott, I suppose, intended Niagara Square should be the centre of his city; from that point the streets run off in all directions—eight broad avenues—and at night, when these streets are lighted, from that point in the square where they all centre, they make a grand show, double lines of light stretching off into the surrounding darkness. This square did not become the centre of the city, because the State reserved a mile strip along the Niagara river, and so Buffalo was thrown to the east and south, in a measure interrupting the perfection of Mr. Ellicott's plan. But as it has turned out, we have received a largess of favor from his liberal designing; he gave to the city a good, comely face. But many of us can remember when the face of Buffalo was rather rough, and parts of the year too dirty, with mire, for washing to do any good. Main street was as broad as Mr. Ellicott laid it out, but its mud was said to have no bottom. I have seen teams sloughed on Mohawk street, near Delaware; and one team I remember seeing sunk so deep, that it seemed to be going through, until another team was brought to drag out and rescue the sinkers. I saw a young lady, one day, sloughed in the middle of Pearl street, near Tupper, so that she could not step without leaving behind her shoes and overshoes, perhaps the whole foot apparel; and there she stood, with a patience peculiar to those days, until I got boards and made a way for her poor feet. It was found, every spring and fall, that the face of Buffalo was too soft. Gradually our fine pavements for street and sidewalk have been extended, the best I know anywhere, and now we have fifty-two miles of paved streets—so well graded that nowhere is there steepness enough to be inconvenient for heavy draughts, and everywhere there is descent enough to make quick and cleanly drainage. The physiognomy of Buffalo owes more than we think of to the excellent system of sewerage planned and recommended by Mr. Oliver G. Steele, and adopted more than twenty years ago; it has been gradually extended according to the original plan, until now we have fifty-four miles of sewers, all working, in their hidden ways, for the health and beauty of our city. O, those dirty-faced, foul-breathed cities without sewers! Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, and parts of New York, in a hot morning of August or September, have not faces fit to be seen, and the atmosphere in the by-places is loaded with disease. We have fifty-six miles of gas pipes, and thirty-three miles of water pipes, filling streets and houses with light, and furnishing water to extinguish fires, promote cleanliness, and add to the comforts of home.

By all these outward means, costing about $2,000,000 in the aggregate, our city's physiognomy, which, though grand, was rude and shaggy at first, has been smoothed, refined, and beautified. We all know, in regard to human physiognomy, what wonders are wrought by the surface touches of hatters, barbers, and milliners; so has the face of our city been made comely.

But physiognomy depends much upon the soul within. A face may have good contour, fine complexion, elegant surroundings, the features well enough, and yet be blank, unmeaning. There can be no grand physiognomy without the illumination of a grand soul. I have watched college classes of young men, and seen the light of intelligence, and the delicate lines and touches of refinement coming into their faces, as their minds and hearts were raised and dignified by generous culture; unpromising heads and homely faces sometimes made glorious, from the animating spirit that came out visible, radiate, in eye and features.

The physiognomy of cities takes characteristic airs and expression from the spirit of builders and citizens. The cities of the middle ages, those strongholds, surrounded by walls, frowning with castles and towers, grew out of the belligerent spirit of cruel barbarism; and the physiognomy of those old feudal towns is like that of roughs and prize-fighters, by dreadful discipline made up to maul, or be mauled to death. The old castellated mount of Edinburgh seems still clenching its fists, and gritting its teeth with the ancient Scottish hate of England; and York and Chester wear the stern features which the Romans gave them to overawe the ancient Britons. The towns and very hamlets of Wales still look grim and defiant toward England.

The French have built Paris, and how the spirit of France appears in the gay, showy capital! No place in the world like it to enjoy oneself, to be comfortable, to have pleasant sights, and endless diversions, amusements, and scientific curiosities; it can take the weary, hard-worked man, and keep him busy in pleasant ways until he is rested; it can take the poor hypochondriac, and make him laugh himself into health. Gay, interesting, smiling Paris—the worldling's heaven—it is the ultimate result, the chef d'œuvre of the French spirit. Paris is France, and in its face shows the soul of the nation,—the theatre more than the church—enjoyment more than virtue—the life that is, more than that which has not come yet.

We turn now to the physiognomy of our own city. It is a comely, noble face—open and generous, thoughtful and earnest—not grim with knotted muscles, as though born out of combat, nor soft with blandishments for the merely sensuous nature. I like the face; it has a common-sense look of business, and yet it has æsthetic expression of convenience and beauty, and best of all, a wise, serious look; public school-houses among the fine buildings on the sightly avenues,—and the churches more conspicuous and beautiful than the theatre. Business, knowledge, beauty, religion, are in the features of our city, more than pleasure and diversions. Cities take their physiognomy, in large degree, from the spirit of their builders and citizens: we expect the child to possess its parents' qualities and tendency. Who were the fathers, and mothers, and builders of Buffalo, and were they such men and women as, according to our philosophy, we must presume them to be?

Mr. Ellicott, who first saw the possibility of a large city here, was no doubt a man of fine natural sense, and far-sighted; he saw what no one else could, or did see, for many years; and long after he had laid out the city, and in his own mind saw the streets made, and lined with blocks of stores and houses, emigrants from the East, refusing opportunities here, went on to Chautauqua and to New Connecticut, not believing a word of Mr. Ellicott's about the certainty of a large city at the foot of Lake Erie. Men were slow to see that a great commerce must grow up on these Lakes. They could not comprehend the possibilities of the vast wilderness and prairies of the West; and the settlers that came in here to the hamlet and village of Buffalo, from the beginning even up to 1816, had not begun to believe in Mr. Ellicott's prophecy. They came here to make a living by the local trade, and perhaps secure something by advance of village lots; but very few cared much for the great city plan, with its Dutch named avenues and streets. Though General Washington, thirty years before, on a journey to Central and Northern New York, had foreseen western settlement and commerce, and though Mr. Ellicott saw a city here, the ordinary men said, what chance for commerce here, while the creek has to make a new mouth for itself, every spring, through the shifting sands of the Lake shore? And yet commerce did increase, and Buffalo dragged along until it was burned up; then it arose again, and after the war was over, new men came, with new ideas, and great expectations. Western emigration began to be an astounding fact, and far-sighted men saw what must be the consequence of it; ways of communication must be opened between West and East; a great canal must be made from the Hudson to Lake Erie, and at the western terminus of that canal, wherever it be, there must be a large commercial city. Such thoughts and conclusions drew bright, enterprising men to this vicinity, to Black Rock, and Buffalo, from the new settlements of Western New York, and from New England, especially from Connecticut. Superior men came looking after the great opportunity. Where should the city be?

Gen. Peter B. Porter, an energetic, imperative man, a distinguished officer in the war that had lately closed, graced with the laurels he had won, and influential in the whole State, said the canal must come to Black Rock, and there the city must be; and he and his friends prevailed so far as to procure large State appropriations for the Black Rock harbor, and they felt so confident, that Black Rock was laid out for a great city. Meantime Buffalo was struggling for recognition of her position and claims. We can hardly conceive of the intense rivalry of these two localities, which now are both Buffalo. It was a struggle of some years. No pains, and no money that could be had, were spared by the rival places to draw in influential inhabitants. Black Rock said that Buffalo Creek had no mouth, and no harbor could be made here; and Buffalo said that Black Rock would be swept down the Niagara as soon as it attempted to have wharves and shipping; and besides, said Buffalo, its face made up into an interrogation point, how are vessels to get up through the swift water from Black Rock into the Lake? Oxen were used tugging the first vessels up the shore. Was commerce always to go by ox-power, by what the sailors called a horned breeze?

The contest was at its height from 1820 to 1823. In the summer of 1821 or 1822, an eventful meeting took place in Buffalo. The Canal Commissioners held a session in the Dancing Hall of the Eagle tavern. The object of meeting here was to consider the claims of Buffalo to be the western terminus of the Erie Canal. It was life or death to Buffalo, as they all thought. Would that we had a true picture of that meeting. Mr. Joseph Dart was an eye-witness, and has given me some account of it. DeWitt Clinton was chairman of the Commissioners, and Stephen Van Rensselaer the patroon, Henry Seymour, Myron Holley, and Samuel Young, were his associates,—an august company! The great question was, Black Rock or Buffalo? Gen. Porter was the chief advocate for Black Rock; and with shrewd ability, for which he was so distinguished, he advocated the cause of the dwellers by the River side. The chief advocate for Buffalo was Judge Wilkeson. He was not a lawyer, not much used to public speaking, never trained and cultured in schools or college, but a man of great natural force, vigorous common sense and mighty will, with courage and hope born out of his rugged strength. Educated by the rough, earnest struggles of border life, he had made his way here, and saw at once the practical bearings of this great question; he knew this was the place for the city, and his confidence, and the substantial reasons he could give for it, made him the man to plead for the interests of Buffalo. The day was hot, and our advocate, says my informant, pulled off his coat, and according to the habit of his laborious life, worked for us all in his shirt sleeves! And Mr. Dart says that after the hearing, Gov. Clinton summed up the whole matter in a judicial way, letting it be quite distinctly seen that in his opinion this was the place for the city, and that here the canal should terminate. During the year 1822 or 1823, with great struggles the question was settled. The canal was to come to Buffalo. There were large-minded men here, who saw the opportunity, and with all their might laid hold of it.

The first thing to be done was to give Buffalo Creek a permanent stationary mouth, into which vessels could enter. It was a difficult and expensive work. Black Rock said it never could be done; but there were men here who said it should be done. But how? There was not ready money enough in the whole village to pay for such a work, and it was proposed that, if possible, $12,000 should be obtained by loan from the State. A bond was made, and the names that went upon that bond for the loan should be known to every inhabitant of Buffalo. That was the hard lift, that the magnum opus—and showed the noble purpose and determination of the men who gave the bond. In their day of small things, all of them comparatively poor, they bound themselves for the means to make it seem possible that there could be a harbor at this point; everything depended on this. The State refused to do the experimental work; the Canal Commissioners doubted: and so four men put their names to the bond, and got the $12,000 from the State; and with other money, private subscriptions in small sums from the villagers, to be given in labor, in shoes, in blacksmithing, in stone, in pork, in brush for fascines, the first breakwater was constructed, under the direction, and in part by the hands of Judge Wilkeson, in 1820 and 1821. These were the names upon that bond: at the head, and probably the originator of the plan, Samuel Wilkeson; let it stand upon his monument at Forest Lawn, of granite like his character—urbem condidit, he built the city; Charles Townsend and George Coit, young men from Connecticut, partners in a village trade; and Oliver Forward, a lawyer and strong-natured man; all these four are builders of the city. They took up the mountain, and cast it into the sea. Others helped—all worked then, when life and death for Buffalo hung on the ends of the balance. How little do we, who have entered into other men's labors, think how they struggled for what we so securely enjoy! There was Judge Wilkeson's breakwater, made of fascines, filled in with rocks and sand, and bound together. Black Rock, and others, said the first spring storm would send the Judge's fascines down the Niagara in a hurry; and there was danger—Buffalo felt afraid. Mr. Henry Lovejoy says he remembers going, with two hundred men, down to the breakwater at the mouth of the creek in the spring of 1822, each with a shovel on his shoulder, that they might be there when the ice broke up and went out of the creek, and by shovelling manage the currents, and protect the new breakwater. They waited there all day, the creek, still as dead, playing possum while they watched it. At dark they came home, hungry, tired, scolding at.

commercial difficulties; and lo, in the night the flood burst out, as my informant says, turning the breakwater upside down; but the Judge had made it fast together, and so heavily weighted it with stone, that it held fast its integrity and kept its place; and to this day, the old cribs remain under the massive stone breakwater at the light house. The floods were foiled, and Black Rock was non-suited—Buffalo had a harbor, and a way to get into it, and out of it.

Meantime the Canal was making, and in 1825 came the grand opening of the New York highway between East and West; all clouds now had cleared away, and sunshine rested upon the fortunes of Buffalo.

We will not fail to do justice to those men who were the fathers and builders of our handsome-faced city; there were among them many large-minded, far-seeing men, and they gave their own great proportions to the city they builded; and the expression of our city's physiognomy tells of Ellicott and Wilkeson, and Townsend and Coit, and Forward and Heacock, Johnson and Pratt, and Love and Tracey, and Potter, and Joy and Webster; and Chapin, and the men who preached the Gospel, and those who taught the youth. Those men, the builders, almost all are gone; and if any one inquires for their monument, tell him to open his eyes and look around—Circumspice!

But the most of those men, who did so well, and the active men who came after them, are said to have made fools of themselves in the speculations of 1835, which were indeed as wild here in Buffalo as anywhere in the country. There are old men in New England, and multitudes of them in Old England, who think of our beautiful city as wearing a fool's face, because it had the speculation mania badly. Let me say a word about this. We deny that there is a single deep mark of a fool in the physiognomy of our city. The folly was only a passing shade. The fact is, we all make fools of ourselves sometime, in some way, and the only question among us is of more or less. Go read how the canny Scotchmen, about 1694, were maddened and befooled by the Darien speculation, which had no other basis than a dream-idea which one Paterson had of opening a passage across the Isthmus of Darien. Fletcher, of Saltoun, chiefly known by his saying, "Let me make a nation's songs, and whoever will may make their laws," wise as he was, had this fever, and others among the shrewdest; and for six years, cold Scotia was all aflame, and then came utter collapse of the emptiness. Go read how Paris, all France indeed, was befooled, in 1718, by John Law, and his scheme of the Mississippi and India Company, a magnificent humbug hatched in the brain of one single man; all Paris went crazy for three or four years;—more absurd things are told of, than were ever done here.

But England claims never to lose common sense. Go read of her South Sea mania in 1720. The whole nation was affected, from the throne to the cottage. The idea was to get gold and silver by going round Cape Horn to Peru and Mexico. The scheme was called the Earl of Oxford's masterpiece. Spain, powerful then, never allowed them to do a thing towards realizing their idea; but knaves blew it up into the most magnificent bubble, and for four or five years the South Sea mania and its mighty Company swelled with gigantic pretensions; it would shoulder the whole national debt of £31,000,000 sterling—it would pour riches into every house; it swelled, AND THEN it burst; and English Common Sense was seen, with foolish and enraged look, staring at the floating vapors! The mania of speculation here was not so strange,—there was foundation to stand upon. From the opening of the canal in 1825, there was a rush of western emigration through Buffalo—each year it grew greater than before; the canal was crowded; hotels all full; warehouses groaned under their burdens; vessels and steamers could not be built fast enough for the demands of business. I was here in the autumn of 1835, and one morning I was at the dock, with many other strangers, gazing upon the mighty heaving western tide. There was a pile of goods and furniture all along on Joy & Webster's wharf, more than twenty feet high, and upon the top of it sat as many as a dozen Senecas, men and women; they too, with the rest of us, gazing with astonishment at this sudden flood of life sweeping over them, coming they knew not whence, and going they knew not whither. It was marvellous! Land was wanted, land to stand upon—land to speculate with; land was gold. And then it seemed that all the opening West was to come with its harvest contributions floating right to Buffalo. Railroads then were not much thought of for carrying freight; to this point came the Lake—from this went the Canal—and here might be the New York of the West; and so it would have been, but for the coming of railroads to compete with vessels for the carrying trade. It was not strange that the men here made a great mistake, got wild with hope, and that some were hoisted upon their bubbles to get very bad falls; but generally there was some basis to speculation, it was not all idea and dream; there were real facts enough to make sensible men hope prodigiously. It may seem very wise to look back and laugh at the old builders and business men of Buffalo, but they were wiser than Solomon, compared with Scotland, France, and England, when their ravings came.

I love to think what those men of Buffalo in 1835, in their great hope, meant to do here. The merchants were to have an Exchange filling Clarendon Square, and with a towering dome two hundred and twenty-five feet above the pavement. Com. Perry was to have a monument of white marble in front of the churches, one hundred feet high, with graceful carving, armorial bearings, and emblematic statues. Education was to have the University of Western New York with magnificent endowment, and the foremost men of the country in its various departments. Nor were the good intents all on paper merely; one of the wildest of the hoppers did actually start a free public school for sixty scholars, children of the poor, and kept it open and flourishing for several years. I honor men who, if they do get crazed by enterprise and too much hope, show themselves large-minded and nobly generous, grateful to patriots, munificent to education, mindful of the poor, and anxious to bestow true riches and quickened life upon posterity! With the mind's eye, behold our city's physiognomy, as the great hoppers meant it should be, with the beautiful Perry monument, and the University of Western New York with its grand buildings on North street, rivalling Harvard or Yale, and society graced and improved by its teachers and students; and with a commerce on the Lake, that might require a Merchants' Exchange as large and high as was dreamed of. Despite the ridicule upon those builders' failure, the future may fulfill their expectation more nearly than we think.

In regard to faces, association does wonders; the old adage comes true—handsome is, that handsome does; even homely features may get so blent with truth, love, and nobleness, that to the mind's eye they are beautiful. The kind, good woman, though with no line of grace or beauty in form or face, who has left home and friends, and for the sake of mercy gone to the hospitals, becomes beautiful as an angel to the sick soldier, as she bends over him with a mother's tenderness, striving to relieve his anguish; and just so it is with cities' faces. There is little Calais, in France: to my mind it has always worn a halo of glory, ever since in my old school book I read how Edward III. of England was about to put the city to fire and sword, but consented to spare the inhabitants, and their homes and children, if six of the principal men of the city would volunteer to come bare-headed and bare-footed, with halters about their necks, to be hanged in view of his besieging, victorious army; and the martyr heroes came, Eustace De St. Pierre at their head. Such nobleness has given interest and beauty to Calais for all these five hundred years! The old pilgrims of 1620 gave a glory to the unromantic shores and barren hills of Plymouth, and travellers will not cease to go to that shrine of lofty self-sacrifice to truth and freedom, to gaze upon the brave, heroic face of that landscape. And, alas! how the face of a city that is fair enough to the outward sight, may to the mind's eye get a look of deformity, that will make outward comeliness as nothing. There is New York, imperial city, at the gates of the world's commerce, the waters gathering around her as if anxious to bear her freighted keels; but, O, that hard, meanly cruel scowl upon her face, wrought there by riot against law, and savage massacre of weak, unoffending men, women, and children, because God had made them with a dark skin! And, let the truth be told, our own city got an ugly mark, a stain not readily washed out, by just the beginning of similar riot and bloodshed. Sin destroys beauty!

Look far away towards the sunset—to the golden horn of the West, where San Francisco, Queen of the Pacific, sits beside the sea. She has been noble. Though so far away, and tempted to stand aloof in selfish isolation, she has felt the laboring heart-beat of the Union and of liberty, and while bearing her share of public burden, she has sent hundreds of thousands to the Sanitary Commission. With generous loyalty she turns toward us, and stretches out her arms to help. To the mind's eye, how noble and fair the face of that young Pacific Queen! Handsome is, that handsome does.

The builders of our city have done their work, and on the whole have done it well. They have made for us a dwelling-place with open, finely-formed features, and their earnest, generous spirit gives a handsome expression. But Buffalo is not finished: generations yet to come are still to be builders, and every one of us, in public or private life, is giving expression more and more, good or bad, to our city's face.

A PAPER

READ BEFORE THE BUFFALO HISTORICAL SOCIETY, JAN. 4, 1864.

BY E. P. DORR, ESQ.

MR. PRESIDENT, AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY:

You have honored me with an invitation to read a paper before you, on the Commerce and Navigation of the Northwestern Lakes. Other persons, members of your society, might have done the subject more credit, and you more honor. In my poor way, I will endeavor to do my best; and if I succeed in giving pleasure to the passing hour, and interesting you in my subject, I shall be more than satisfied.

The subject is a large one; in abler hands than mine, it might be elaborated to almost any extent, without exhausting the subject or tiring the listener. Commerce, the world over, has always been the greatest developer of all that tends to elevate man to the highest degree of social, political and pecuniary eminence and enjoyment; and here upon our beautiful chain of lakes and rivers, with its five thousand miles of continuous navigable lake coast—a distance that would cross the Atlantic and back by the nearest route—how magically has it done all this. We look to the Eastern seaboard, and to the Old World across the sea, for the great commercial emporiums of “King Commerce,” without considering that here at home, right in our midst, has grown up a commerce, within the lifetime of most of us, that is second to none in the world in point of magnitude and all that makes people great and powerful. It has grown up as though touched by the wand of the enchanter, bidding it come forth on the instant, and the suddenness of its coming has taken the wonder of it from before our eyes. We get accustomed to it as a matter of course, and the magnitude of the effect of the great commerce of the lakes upon the development of the country adjacent and tributary to them, that has been forced upon us in such gigantic proportions, is mingled with and lost sight of in the great events that have transpired upon this continent, and throughout the civilized world, in the last quarter of a century.

It is not my intention to go back to the history of the early navigation of the lakes. I have understood from our Secretary that Captain Augustus Walker has prepared a paper embracing all that; and, although I have never seen it, nor heard it read, I have no doubt, from the ability of the writer, that he has done the subject full justice; and I have no wish, even had I the material and ability, to intrude upon his domain. There are but two or three points antecedent to my coming to this city, connected with the early history of lake commerce, that I wish to touch upon; and I think, considering the importance attached to them, you will cheerfully bear with me in so doing. I have recently examined the records of our Custom House, and have discovered many things that to me are new and interesting, but that to many of you were probably known before. I find that Buffalo was made a Port of Entry, by act of Congress, on the third day of March, 1806. With your permission I will read from my special copy:

ACT OF MARCH 3, 1806.

"AN ACT to establish the district of Genesee, of Buffalo Creek, and Miami, and to alter the Port of Entry of the District of Erie."

"§ 2. That all the shores, rivers and waters heretofore belonging to the District of Niagara, which empty into Lake Erie or into the River Niagara, above the Falls of Niagara, shall, from and after the 31st day of March next, be a district, to be called the District of Buffalo Creek, of which Buffalo Creek shall be the sole Port of Entry, and a Collector for said District shall be appointed, to reside at Buffalo Creek."

OLIVER FORWARD was the first Collector.

Compiled by Capt. E. P. Dorr, Buffalo, N. Y., from the original records, in the month of December, 1863.

The first vessel that ever took out what is termed a "Sea Register" at the Buffalo Custom House was the schooner Messenger, of 353 tons, James M. Averill Master, on the 13th day of August, 1859, bound from Buffalo to Cadiz, Spain, direct, with a cargo of staves. She made the passage, Buffalo to Cadiz, via the St. Lawrence River, in forty-two days.

Warren Bryant was Collector, and William F. Best, Deputy Collector.

This being the first "sea register" granted here, a special form was sent from Washington for that purpose, and a form for the crew list, copies of which—fac simile copies on parchment—I now present to the Society, in the name of Captain James M. Averill, who is present.

Most of you heard Mr. Brown's interesting paper, the other night, of the voyage of the "Republican," made the same year, but earlier, and the troubles her master encountered, on account of not having a clean "bill of health," certified to by a Spanish official on this side. Capt. Averill informs me that he had his bill of health certified to at Quebec, by the British Consul; and, on his arrival at Cadiz, on presenting his papers to the officials, he was asked why he did not, in the absence of a Spanish officer at Quebec, have the Mayor of the city sign them. He answered that it did not occur to him. He was permitted to discharge his vessel after three days' quarantine, the result, I have no doubt, of Mr. Brown's, energetic measures, taken a few months before, in a similar case, in his official position as Consul at Tangiers.

Thus, we find that in 1819 we had seven vessels, including the steamer "Walk-in-the-Water," enrolled in the District of Buffalo Creek, of an aggregate tonnage of 472 tons; and while mentioning the name of the steamer "Walk-in-the-Water," I will, with your permission, give you a few facts that I have gathered concerning her, from some of our citizens yet living, and from the records of the Custom House. Many of the facts may not be new to most of you, but they will bear repeating, and should be placed upon the record of history; for, as far as I can learn, this steamer was not only the pioneer of steam navigation upon the lakes (the Savannah crossing the ocean, I think, afterwards,) but was the pioneer of rough-water steam navigation upon this continent—and I might perhaps add, the Old World—thus demonstrating that the exposition of science and the march of great improvement is not confined to the old-settled countries, but is often developed, as shown in our own history, here upon the lakes, and particularly in this case, by the necessities and energies of the new one and its people. May we not trace the hand of the great and good Father above us in this early demonstration of the great commercial power we now wield, and in feeding the millions, as we do, with the products of our shores.

In the construction of this steamer, how little thought its originators and builders of the great work they were inaugurating by thus laying the foundation of the splendid fleet of steamers, afterwards constructed here upon the lakes, outrivalling those of any other country in beauty of model, construction, finish, and fleetness, bearing the emigrant and people from the great countries beyond us, across the sea, to the natural farms, the great prairies of the West. Many of these steamers, including the largest and best, were built in our own city.

The steamer Walk-in-the-Water was the first steamer built and used upon the lakes. She was built at Black Rock, in 1819, near the little ravine or gully, opposite or a little below the head of Squaw Island. Adam and Noah Brown, of New York, were the master builders; Peter Loundsberry was the carpenter-foreman or superintendent. She had no guards, except at the wheels; no bulwarks aft, and no upper deck; was 338 60-95 tons burthen; her engine was what is termed a low-pressure square cross-head one, and, with her machinery, was built in New York, and drawn from Albany here on broad-wheeled wagons, with from five to eight horses attached to each. Her boilers were built at Black Rock, Harry Daw, our worthy fellow-citizen, assisting in their construction; and he was the master blacksmith in furnishing the iron work for her. John C. Calhoun, a Scotchman, was her first engineer. She was rigged with two masts and sails, and ran from Black Rock to Detroit and the Upper Lakes. Her first license was dated May 7th, 1819. It is recorded at the Custom House, evidently by a Scotchman, as "number twa."

The Custom House Registry, or book of enrollments, for that year cannot be found—supposed to have been burned.

In the first license the names of Josephus B. Stewart and Job Fish appear. Job Fish was master.

A second license was taken out September 6th, the same year. Joseph B. Stuart (evidently the same name, though differently spelled in former license,) John Davis and George Coit are named in this second license. John Davis is named as master. Capt. Job Fish, who first commanded her, was a prominent steamboat captain from the North River. He was brought here to command this boat against the wishes of some of the owners, they thinking that a lake man should command her. Captain John Davis, an accomplished lake navigator and sailor, was her pilot and sailing master. The first year she ran, on a passage to Detroit, she was caught in a heavy southwest gale of wind, a little below Erie, and for some time was exposed to imminent peril of being lost, but finally succeeded in getting back into Niagara River for shelter, when Captain Job Fish packed up his baggage and returned to Albany, for smoother water to sail on. Captain John Davis, who was asked to take charge of her by the crew and passengers during this gale of wind, owing to the incompetency of Captain Job Fish, was, as a reward for his good conduct, appointed to command her. I presume this was the cause of the change of license the same year. The "Walk-in-the-Water" was wrecked and lost on the first day of November, 1821. She was bound from Black Rock to Detroit at the time. During a heavy gale of wind from the southwest, as she could make no head against it, she ran back, arriving at the foot of our bay in the night, too dark to see the way into Niagara River. There was no light at the river entrance then. She was anchored in the bay, with four or five anchors, with hempen cables, chain cables not then being in use. She dragged ashore a little before daylight and became a total loss, on the beach, outside, nearly opposite the foot of Main street. Capt. Levi Allen was on board of her when she went ashore. Jedediah Rogers commanded her, and Capt. Wm. Miller was her pilot and sailing master. Her machinery was taken out and saved, and the hull abandoned. Not to be overcome by this disaster, the same owners immediately laid down that fall, and built during the winter of 1821-22, the steamer "Superior." She was built near the foot of what is now Indiana street, in Buffalo, on this or the north side of Buffalo Creek. The machinery of the "Walk-in-the-Water" was put in the "Superior," Captain Levi Allen assisting that winter in taking it out of the "Walk-in-the-Water" and putting it in the "Superior." She commenced running in June or July of 1822. She ran successfully for several years as a steamer, when her machinery was taken out and she was rigged into a ship, by Captain Harry Whittaker, who commanded her. She was eventually lost on Lake Michigan, at Michigan City, Indiana. The engine and machinery of the "Superior" was put into the steamer "Charles Townsend," and ended its career in propelling a boat, with that steamer. Her cylinder, I am told, is now at "Shepard's Foundry," in this city, and in daily use, as I am informed. I have also been informed that part of one of her shafts is now in the possession of the Young Men's Association of the city of Detroit. Measures have been taken to get a piece of this shaft, if possible, for this society. For this information I am indebted to Harry Daw, Esq.

The first high-pressure steamer built and used upon the lakes was the "Pioneer." She was built at Black Rock, at the same place, as I understand, as the "Walk-in-the-Water." Her machinery was built at Pittsburg, Pa., and drawn here by horses and wagons, by way of Erie. From this time forward, steamers came into common use, in limited numbers, upon the lakes.

Among the pioneer masters of vessels upon the lakes, I would mention Captains Fish, Rogers, Bunker and Sherman (who were imported here to sail steamers, and did not stay long.)

Captain Daniel Dobbins (father of our townsman, Captain D. P. Dobbins,) who commanded a vessel upon the lakes in 1803, and who distinguished himself in command of one of the gunboats (the "Olio") of Perry's fleet, during the war of 1812-15.

The vessel that he commanded in 1816 was the schooner "Washington," and, on a voyage to Green Bay in that year, as a Government transport, with troops to establish Fort Howard there, Captain Dobbins discovered and anchored in "Washington Harbor," at the entrance of Green Bay—the first vessel that ever entered it. In honor of that event, he named the island "Washington Island," a name it bears to this day. Some other islands in the vicinity he named for United States army officers who were on board: "Boyer's Bluff," "Chambers" and "Green," Islands were so named. I had this account from Captain Dobbins, Sen., himself, some years ago.

Captain James Ruff, was also a compeer and friend of Captain Dobbins, and was one of the most distinguished and capable of lake masters.

Captain Stephen Champlin, who also commanded one of the gunboats, and distinguished himself at the battle of Lake Erie.

Captain Knapp, who for many years commanded a Revenue Cutter upon the Lakes.

Captain Chelsea Blake, who was with General Scott at Chippewa and Lundy's Lane, distinguishing himself very much as a brave and heroic man, and who for many years commanded some of the finest steamers upon the lakes. Of his noble and characteristic impulse of character many of you can testify.

And then there were Captains Walter Norton, Thomas Wilkins, Cliff Belden, Geo. Miles, John White, Wm. T. Pease, James M. Averill, Charles Burnett, Ned Burke, John Burnham, John Stewart, Robert Wagstaff, John Fleeharty, Simeon Fox, Wessel and Harry Whittaker, Joseph Caskie, David Druayee, Levi and Archibald Allen, William Dickson, Lester Cotton, G. Appleby, Morris Tyler, Sam. Chase, Augustus Walker, Jno. and James Shook, Norman and Alvin Patterson, Charles and Ben. Stannard, Charles

Coshaway, Captain Tucker, Captain Fred. Miller, and many others whose names I have not got. Captains William T. Pease and James M. Averill are believed to be the oldest masters living, now sailing upon the lakes. A few of these still live among us, fine specimens of the early lake sailor and navigator, while most of them have departed, long before they saw the development of the commercial empire they had aided so much to establish.

My own personal knowledge of our lake commerce commenced in 1838—nearly twenty-six years ago. In the month of May in that year, the writer landed from an iron canal packet boat in this city. On our passage up the canal I made the acquaintance of Harry Thompson, of Black Rock, and H. M. Kinne, of Buffalo. For several years I commanded one of the largest sail vessels then in use upon the lake, the schooner "Erie." She was 186 tons burthen; there were only five or six larger vessels than she was, as I recollect them. I speak of myself merely to show my connection with and knowledge of the commerce of the lakes from that time. The ship "Superior," altered from a steamer; the ship "Milwaukie," brig "Neptune," afterwards lost on Lake Michigan, and all her crew and passengers frozen to death, except Captain Sims, who commanded her, and Captain Webster, her First Mate—the Captain having one leg frozen and amputated, and the Mate both; and the brig "Manhattan," afterwards wrecked and lost at Point Abino, on Lake Erie. Then there was the brig "Queen Charlotte" and bark "Detroit," captured from the enemy during the war of 1812–15. A fac simile copy of the original enrollments follows:

ENROLLMENT.

PERMANENT.

No. 19 (nineteen.)

In conformity to an Act of the Congress of the United States of America, entitled "An Act for Enrolling and Licensing Ships and Vessels, &c.," passed the 18th of February, 1793; and "An Act to regulate the Foreign and Coasting Trade on the Northern, Northeastern and Northwestern Frontiers of the United States, and for other purposes," passed the 2d March, 1831. George Miles, Jr., of Erie, Penn., having taken or subscribed the Oath required by said Acts, and having Sworn that he, together with Hiram Pratt, William F. P. Taylor, Horatio Stevens, and Thomas Cooke, of Buffalo, Erie County, N. York, Citizen of the United States, sole owner of the Brig or Vessel called the Queen Charlotte, of Buffalo, whereof L. H. Cotton is at present Master, and as he hath sworn is a Citizen of the United States, and that the said Ship or Vessel was captured from the British Sept. 10th, in the year 1813, as appears by the certificate of Thos. Foster, Collector of the Port of Presque Isle, Pa., and Jay Handy, Jr., Dep. Collector, having certified that the said Brig or Vessel has one flush deck and two masts, and that her length is ninety-two feet and two inches (92.02,) her breadth twenty-six feet (26,) her depth twelve feet (12,) and that she measures two hundred and fifty-four tons 38 ninety-fifths; that she is a full rigged Brig; has no galleries, and a scroll head. And the said George Miles, Jr., having agreed to the description and admeasurement above specified, and sufficient security having been given in conformity with the terms of the said acts, the said Brig has been duly Enrolled at the Port of Buffalo Creek.

[L. S.] Given under my hand and Seal, at the Port of Buffalo Creek, in the said District, this 10th day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five.

These composed the largest vessels then in use upon the lakes.

The tonnage of the lakes in 1838, I have no means of knowing; it was not large, however.

In 1849-50, the writer made a compilation from the records of all the Custom Houses of the tonnage of the lakes, and of the Port of Buffalo. The following is a copy of the latter:

Compiled by Capt. E. P. Dorr.

It was full of errors, but it was as perfect as could be obtained at that time. I am satisfied that there was a good deal of tonnage returned that had gone out of existence, and, in the main, the number of vessels, their tonnage and value, was over-estimated and exaggerated. Under the practical working system of the "Board of Lake Underwriters," the statistics of the returns of vessels in actual use upon the lakes is made as perfect and correct as can be.

The compilation of 1849-50 makes the total tonnage of the Northwestern Lakes as follows:

45,067 tons of steamers—value.....	$3,380,000
16,685 tons of propellers—value.....	950,000
101,080 tons of sail vessels—value.....	3,538,000
161,832 tons gross.	Value, $7,868,000

The tonnage of the lakes in 1862, as compiled by the writer in the winter of 1862-63—while pursuing his duties as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the "Board of Lake Underwriters"—is as follows:

Showing a wonderful increase, even admitting the crude and exaggerated estimate of the former statistics.

The era of side-wheel steam navigation reached its culminating point about the year 1856. Railroads westward, upon both sides of our lakes, destroyed the passenger business, upon which they mainly depended. At that time we had upon the lakes a large number of the finest and best steamers in the world, of large tonnage. Excepting some few of a smaller size running to Lake Superior, and some few on Lake Michigan, they have all disappeared. Some of the engines have gone to China, and are now running on steamers hundreds of miles up the Chinese rivers. Some are running in a new line of steamers between New York and New Orleans. Propellers have taken their place. Steam propellers almost had their origin upon the lakes. The first steam propeller in use upon the lakes, and, as far as I know of, any where else, was a small sloop-rigged craft, built at Oswego in 1840, called the "Vandalia." She was the pioneer of our now splendid fleet of propellers.

This seems to be a fitting place to introduce the carrying trade of the lakes.

The early commerce and carrying trade of the lakes, as most of you know, was all one way—from the East, Westward—and in small vessels, laden with supplies of provisions for the settlers of the Western States bordering upon the lakes, the new country not yet producing enough for its own consumption—strikingly in contrast with the immense exports of breadstuffs and supports of animal life at this time from the same States, and all within the space of less than twenty-five years—and as the States became settled, goods from the East, for Western consumption, were added to the transportation. In a few years trade was turned—the seed carried Westward by the emigrant began to yield its golden and blessed return, and, in 1836, the first shipment of grain was made from the upper lakes to Buffalo—3,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from Grand River, Michigan, on the brig “John Kenzie,” owned by Josiah Dorr and DeGarmo Jones, of Detroit, and commanded by Captain R. C. Bristol, now of Chicago. This shipment was only made as a demonstration, giving promise of the magnificent trade we now enjoy. It was not until 1840 that grain was exported from the Upper Lakes to the avenues of an Eastern market, thereby changing the entire carrying system of the lakes. From that small beginning has grown up a grain and produce trade second to none in this country or the world, as the statistics of receipts at the Port of Buffalo alone, in 1862 and 1863, will demonstrate.

RECEIPTS AT BUFFALO.

Below is given a statement of the receipts at Buffalo, from the West, by water, of most of the principal articles, during the seasons of Lake Navigation of 1862 and 1863:

When this revolution in our carrying trade took place (1840,) it found us with a small number of sail vessels upon the lakes, of an average of about one hundred or one hundred and twenty-five tons burthen—good vessels of their size—built by the fathers of many of the splendid naval architects of the present day; there were so few of them that any sailor of a year's experience upon the lakes knew and could name them all at sight. There were half-a-dozen side-wheel passenger and freight steamers.

The grain was unloaded from the vessels, in Buffalo, into canal boats, by hoisting it out in barrels, by the crew, taking three or four days to unload a cargo of 5,000 bushels.

In a little while, from the impetus of a large emigration, the Western States bordering upon the lakes were rapidly settled, the lands were cultivated, and the trade was soon in advance of the water-carriage; vessels multiplied rapidly in numbers and size, fast creating the necessity of a more expeditious mode of handling grain cargoes, and in 1842–43 the first elevator was built in Buffalo by Joseph Dart, Esq.

ELEVATOR STATISTICS.

A list of the first vessels unloaded by the first Elevator in Buffalo.

The first steam elevator built, as far as I can learn, anywhere,—and the first elevator intended solely for commercial purposes, and the transfer and storage of grain from vessels, was built in Buffalo, by Mr. Joseph Dart, in the winter of 1842–3, on the north side of the creek, at the junction of the ship canal where “Bennett's Elevator” now stands. It was destroyed by fire in 1862. Mr. Dart operated it himself. Mr. William Wells, now of the firm of Seymour & Wells, was employed as foreman.

The first vessel unloaded was the schooner Philadelphia, Captain Charles Rogers, though the elevator had been first put (to test the machinery) into the schooner J. B. Skinner, and some grain taken out of her; but she was not unloaded. The Philadelphia was of one hundred and twenty-three tons, and discharged 4,515 bushels wheat, consigned to Henry M. Kinne and George Davis, then the firm of Kinne & Davis.

The first receipt of corn was the cargo of the schooner South America, Captain A. Bradley, 3,145 40-56 bushels, June 22, 1843—sixth vessel on the list.

I give the number of vessels and bushels of grain unloaded and handled by this elevator, that year, just to show you the small beginning of the immense grain business now done at this port, through our elevators.

I am happy to be able to say to you, what you all know, that Mr. Joseph Dart who made this first important progressive movement, still lives among us, a hale, hearty man, with as good promise of life as any of us; and, in his name, I am delegated to present to the "Historical Society" this book, the original record of all the vessels unloading at his elevator during the first year it was operated; containing, also, the original "tallies" of the weights, and a list of the canal boats into which the grain was loaded; a little old book apparently not worth noticing, but containing the first record of a branch of business that is now computed by millions in value, all over the lakes.

Gross number bushels elevated, ..229,200 11-116

Against this amount, elevated in 1843, we have elevated in the port of Buffalo in 1862, 29,740,291 bushels wheat; and of corn, 23,873,954.

The average is 2,606 bushels to the vessel; but this is not a fair average of their capacity, as most of them were partly loaded with rolling freight. By many it was not supposed safe to load entirely with grain.

Buffalo now boasts of twenty-six elevators, with a storage capacity of 6,000,000 bushels of grain; capable of discharging, in the aggregate, from vessels, 130,000 bushels per hour.

Mr. Joseph Dart informs me that these elevators, when fresh and clean, in his opinion, can handle 200,000 bushels per hour; and he is good authority.

Within the past two or three years it has not been an uncommon thing for a fleet of vessels to arrive at Buffalo, loaded with a million of bushels of grain, and to discharge the same and leave the port within the space of twenty-four hours.

We may dwell upon this topic with pride. Where else in the history of the world can you turn to such a spectacle? 1,643 vessels, with half a million tons capacity, manned by some 20,000 seamen, transporting millions in value of property, over our inland seas, traversing a length of five thousand miles of coast line, crossing each other's tracks continually; and within the space of less than twenty-five years has this commerce, without any special effort of our own, almost been forced upon us. Who can foretell its future magnitude, or the blessings from it yet to come? Who can anticipate or predict the influence it has yet to produce in the world's history? While we have been told that "Cotton is King," have we not seen, here upon our beautiful domain, by his golden and yellow robes, shedding peace and plenty upon us, that "Corn" is also King, and Commerce his spouse and Queen? Let us, each and every one of us, do all that we possibly can, with tribute to the one and encouragement to the other, to perpetuate his reign and to advance the interests of commerce and of liberal trade. The carriage of the lakes by water, and the carriage by the rail and canal from the far West to the East, are not and should not be rival interests. They are all the legitimate results of the action and energy of a free people.

The genius of a Clinton, with his co-laborers and associates, gave us the Erie Canal, that avenue of wealth and power through our own State, serving also to develop and advance our commerce upon the lakes; for, without the canal, what would the commerce of our lakes have amounted to, so far as the interests of our State and city are concerned?

The morning of the 26th day of October, 1825, was an important one in the history of our city and State: the opening of the Erie Canal from Buffalo to Albany. On that day, at ten o'clock A. M., the first boat—the canal boat “Seneca Chief”—with her distinguished passengers, left Buffalo (then a village) for Albany, New York and Sandy Hook, there to join the waters of Lake Erie with those of the ocean.

The news of their departure was conveyed by the booming of cannon from Buffalo to Sandy Hook in one hour and twenty minutes; and the news of their reception there returned to Buffalo by the same novel expedient, in the same time—Lake Erie thus greeting the ocean with the news of the journey of her first-born to her domain, and the answer of a cordial welcome back again, in the short space of two hours and forty minutes—a feat seldom surpassed by the telegraph of the present day.

If we had not the Erie Canal, we would not have water carriage through our State to tide-water, certainly not by the way of Buffalo. The St. Lawrence was closed to us. Our Canadian cousins—who are so anxious to have us use their highway now—would not let us use it until within a few years past. They owning the land on both sides of the St. Lawrence from where our side of the bank ended down to the sea, denied us the privilege of its free exit, thus setting at defiance the opinion of the old commercial law-makers, “That a people or nation owning and living upon the bank or banks of a river, at any point, have the natural right of the passage of the river from that point to its outlet.” I may not quote the exact language, but I think that is the meaning and spirit of it. This was the position always taken by our statesmen in treating on that point with our brethren on the other side, and always opposed by them until the adoption of the “Reciprocity Treaty,” when self-interest made them abrogate and abandon it.

One of our friends the other night alluded, in his paper, to vessels passing down the St. Lawrence to the ocean. I had in my mind, at that time, two interesting facts bearing upon his subject, but did not wish to interrupt him. One was this:

The first steam merchant vessel, I think, that passed down the St. Lawrence to the ocean, was the propeller “Ontario.” She was built at the mouth of the Genesee River, in 1846, by George Steers, who afterwards became so prominent as a ship builder. She was about four hundred tons burthen. In 1850 the Ontario was bought by Mr. Bissell, who recently became prominent as connected with the Rock Island Bridge affair, and also the engineer for cutting a canal connecting the Upper Mississippi, enabling steamers to pass through it and our people to capture Island No. 10. Mr. Bissell and his associates bought this boat at Buffalo, and fitted her out here to go to California. She ran by Montreal and out into the ocean without leave. Captain James M. Averill, of our city, commanded her.

The first American merchant vessel that went down the St. Lawrence River to sea, was the bark “Eureka,” of three hundred and fifty tons, in 1849; fitted out at Cleveland, Ohio, and went down the St. Lawrence, by special permit from the Canadian Government. She was bound to California, and arrived out safe.

In the same year, or the following one, at the request of several of our citizens interested, the writer addressed a letter to the Governor-General of Canada, asking him if other American vessels would be allowed a free passage down the St. Lawrence to sea; and he answered me promptly that they would not. I have that letter now among my papers, and if the Society would like to have it, I will look it up. I have thought this of sufficient importance to put on record, when, now at this time, our brethren on the other side are making such strenuous efforts to secure a share of lake commerce. It is a fair race; "let the best man win."

The other interesting fact to which I alluded was this: In 1824 Captain Sam. Ward, an enterprising citizen of Newport, Michigan, on the St. Clair River—afterwards prominent as the projector and owner, in connection with his nephew, Capt. E. B. Ward, of Detroit, of several fine passenger and freight steamers, running on all the lakes above Ontario—built, at Newport, a small schooner called the St. Clair, of thirty tons, and loaded her with skins, furs, potash, and black walnut lumber for gun-stocks, in June of the year 1826, bound to New York. He came to Buffalo, took out her spars, towed through the canal to Albany with his own horses, towed by steam down the Hudson River to New York, and sold his cargo to good advantage; loaded with goods for his own store in Michigan, and brought to Syracuse and Sandusky, filling the vacant space at Syracuse with salt for his own use, and returned the same way and in the same manner to his own home, occupying about eight weeks in making the voyage. This was the first vessel that passed down the Erie Canal to the ocean; none have passed since, that I am aware of, except some of our steam tugs, recently; but is not this fact suggestive and demonstrative of the grand result perfectly feasible and attainable by the plan as put forth so ably the other night by Mr. Prosser. I wish he would publish that paper; it was one of great merit, and the subject, as treated, of great interest to all the dwellers on the lakes, and particularly to our own city. Such ideas and plans should not be one man's property; they should be for all.

All must admit that the Erie Canal originally made the commerce of the lakes. It was its main artery of incipient life, and through which it obtained its sustaining power up to the age of manhood.

I would give it all its meed of praise, and pay my highest tribute of admiration to the genius, the statesmanship, the broad views, the far-seeing sagacity and perseverance of its great founders and builders. Such men are not often produced—they ennoble our race. The memory of their great and glorious deeds—none the less great and glorious from being peaceful and doing good—it becomes a nation's duty to guard and honor.

The commerce of our great inland seas comes next in order with me. From a little germ of thought, first passed across and over the then unknown Atlantic, in 1492, by Columbus, whose spirit would not let him rest until he had fathomed his day-and-night-dream of a new Continent in the Western Hemisphere; and later, fanning his thought into action by our Pilgrim Fathers, in 1620; and later still, when the shores of our lakes and rivers were traversed by the foot of the Reverend Fathers, the Jesuit Priests, who early saw the beauty and goodness of the new lands along their borders, as they reported them to their master, the French King, has sprung up this great and mighty commerce, demonstrating the old adage, "that small things produce great result." And while we give great credit to the Canal and the commerce of the lakes for our prosperity, have we no word of cheer and approbation for that magnificent net-work of railroads, belting this whole northern country together? Has not this iron rail, by giving the emigrant quicker, easier and cheaper transit to the fertile prairies of the West, accelerated and hastened the settlement; and has it not (the rail) brought to the shores of our lakes, from remote points, hitherto inaccessible to market, the products of those lands they have been instrumental in settling, thereby increasing our commerce and wealth. And have not the canals, the commerce and the railroads combined and joined hands together to give us such a high state of prosperity and happiness, peopling our shores with beautiful cities as if by magic, that in other countries would have taken centuries to produce, and making our western lands, that a few years ago were a wilderness, a garden of wealth, with its golden fruits. You cannot separate and disintegrate the working together for the good of all mankind of these great natural laws, by legislation or otherwise. All good conceptions are large and comprehensive; you cannot fetter nor contract their action. It is the immutable law of God, in his mercy to man, that all should partake of his goodness and beneficence, that it should not be otherwise; and in proportion as we enlarge our field of ideas and liberality, do the good results follow. There is enough for all to do. Increase your commerce; encourage the tide of emigration; enlarge your canals; construct your railroads. It all combines to develop and cultivate those immense tracts (so small a portion of which is improved, as our friend told us the other night,) of land yet uncultivated, in the West beyond us; every dollar invested in so doing brings an avalanche (eventually, if not at once) of wealth in return. These different avenues of transportation, commerce and trade, worked together in a spirit of common brotherhood, shoulder to shoulder, with the might of human development called out by the best spirit actuating the human breast, the high-toned, peaceful pursuits of agriculture and commerce, and the advancement and good of our race, there is no limit to the prosperity, under God's blessing, we may not arrive at and attain to. The great East, with its ocean-border stretching out to the world, is bound in chains of natural necessity to the commerce of the great inland seas, the railroads and canals of the West.

JANUARY.—On thirteen days of the month the temperature was above the freezing point, and for the first ten days grain was transported by canal to Lockport. The lake was free from ice the entire month.

FEBRUARY.—The lake was closed by ice on the 4th, and open again for navigation on the 26th. The winter months were remarkably mild, the mean temperature having been 30 degrees.

MARCH.—Snow fell on sixteen days of the month, and rain on five. The best, and nearly all the ice housed by dealers for summer use was cut after the 15th. Robins came on the 24th. The creek cleared of ice on the 27th.

APRIL.—Three propellers left port on the 3d, and the ice disappeared on the 4th. Bluebirds came on the 4th, and swallows on the 19th. The opening of buds and flowers was earlier by one week than the previous year.

MAY.—Erie Canal opened on the 1st. Currants and lilacs in leaf on the 4th. Peach and cherry trees were in blossom on the 12th; strawberries on the 14th; plum trees on the 15th; and apple trees on the 25th. The sugar maple and horse chestnut were in leaf on the 15th, and forest trees generally on the 28th. No frost during the month.

JUNE.—The first strawberries grown in this county appeared in market on the 15th thirty days from the blossom. Cherries began to ripen on the 24th.

SEPTEMBER.—The month was a cold one, with destructive frosts on the 22d, 26th, and 27th.

OCTOBER.—Ice formed over stagnant pools on the 26th and 29th. The leaves of forest trees began to fall on the 1st, and were all off by the 26th.

NOVEMBER.—The first snow sufficient to whiten the earth fell on the 26th.

DECEMBER.—Erie Canal closed on the 12th.

BUFFALO FEMALE ACADEMY.

This Institution is situated in the most eligible and delightful part of the city, and commands a beautiful view of the city, the river, and the lake. The grounds, consisting of a whole block, fronting on Delaware avenue, and extending to a charming private park in the rear, are tastefully laid out and ornamented with trees and shrubbery.

The buildings, "The Cottage" and "Goodell Hall," combine all that is desirable in arrangement and convenience. The former is built of stone, and is exclusively occupied by the family of the Principal, the young ladies entrusted to his care as boarders, and the teachers of the Institution boarding with the Principal. The latter, "Goodell Hall," has been expressly erected for academic instruction, and for spaciousness and convenience, may well challenge comparison with any similar establishment in the country. It has abundant accommodations for four hundred pupils. Rev. A. T. Chester, Principal.

Board of Trustees—Hon. N. K. Hall, President; Rev. A. T. Chester, D. D., Secretary and Treasurer. Samuel F. Pratt, Dennis Bowen, Noah H. Gardner, Henry W. Rogers, Bronson C. Rumsey, Joseph Dart, Sherman S. Jewett, John R. Lee, Thomas Farnham, Jas. M. Smith, George N. Burwell, Myron P. Bush, Charles E. Clarke, Andrew J. Rich.

Buffalo Society of Natural Sciences.—Organized December 5th, 1861; incorporated January 28th, 1863. The object of this Society is the promotion and study of the Natural Sciences.

through the formation of a Museum and Library, the procurement of Lectures, and the use of such other means as shall be found effective. Its primary duties and objects are the collection and preservation of specimens of every vegetable, and of every animated being, (other than man and the domestic animals,) indigenous to Buffalo and its vicinity, and of every rock, fossil, and mineral of the surrounding country; to classify, arrange, and make catalogues of them; to send catalogues of them to its correspondents, and to all lovers of natural science, who may desire them; to observe, record and diffuse a knowledge of all facts illustrative of the nature and habits of such animals and plants; and, so far as it can, to supply the desiderata of its friends and correspondents. By a reciprocation of the services it desires to render others, as well as by such purchases as it may be able to make, and the gifts of our liberal citizens, its collection will soon represent far more than the local natural history; and it hopes and expects that its rooms will be attractive and useful to naturalists, as well as gratifying to the instructed admirers of God's wonderful works. Its rooms are located in the Clarendon block, opposite the churches, up stairs.

The Buffalo Historical Society.—The above Society was organized on the 15th day of April, 1862, and its first election of officers was held on the 20th day of May, 1862. Its general design is to discover, procure and preserve whatever may relate to the history of Western New York, and the City of Buffalo in particular. It will likewise aim to gather statistics of the commerce, manufactures and business of the Lake Region, and those portions of the West that are intimately connected with the interests of Buffalo. For that purpose, it solicits from all persons willing to contribute to the object, donations of books, pamphlets, maps, charts, manuscripts, correspondence, paintings, statuary, files of newspapers, &c., &c., which may have historic importance, or illustrate, in any way, the facts and incidents attendant upon the early settlement and subsequent progress of Western New York and the adjacent regions. Those who are in possession of any of the above described objects of Collection desired by the Society, and may not feel willing to donate or permanently part with them, are respectfully invited to deposit the same among the archives of this Society, to be reclaimed at their pleasure. No property thus deposited will be permitted to be taken from the rooms of the Society, unless with the written consent of the owner or depositor. A fire-proof depository has been secured for the use of the Society. An Annual Oration will be delivered before the Society, on the second Tuesday of January in each year; and Addresses from time to time during the year, of which public notice will be given. The monthly meetings of the Society will be held on the first Tuesday of every month.

THOMAS'

STREET AND AVENUE DIRECTORY

CITY OF BUFFALO.

Entered according to act of Congress, in the year 1864, by E. A. THOMAS, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States, for the Northern District of New York.

EXPLANATION.

It will be noticed that in this Street Directory, the names of the streets are set down in alphabetical order, giving the course which they run, according as nearly as possible to the points of the compass, and enumerating all streets which cross the same in the order in which they occur. In all cases where the numbering of our streets has been perfected, the numbers on the right and left hand corners have been given, so that a person wishing to find, say, No. 379 MAIN STREET, on consulting the Street Directory, finds that the right hand corner of Main and Mohawk is No. 379, consequently the place he seeks is only a few doors above. The imperfect numbering of our streets prevents our Directory from being as comprehensive as it might be; still, to the resident or the stranger it will be found to be useful.

BALL & BONNELL,

(SUCCESSORS TO GEORGE PEUGEOT.)

The subscribers having purchased the business of Mr. George Peugeot, No. 68 Main Street, intend carrying on the manufacture of these CELEBRATED HAND LANTERNS. Their increased facilities for manufacturing will enable them to afford them as cheap as they can be purchased in New York City or elsewhere.

These Lanterns are so constructed that they will burn either lard or coal oil.
Your orders are respectfully solicited.

We refer you to the following gentlemen who have used the UNION RAIL ROAD HAND LANTERN, patented by E. SERRT, Oct. 24, 1854, who, after a fair trial, take pleasure in recommending them as the best Lantern now in use, on account of the Lamp fastening with the Globe frame, being strong, convenient and simple.

BUFFALO ENVELOPE MANUFACTORY

The attention of the trade is directed to this new branch of Buffalo Manufactures. Having entirely new Machines of very recent invention, capable of turning out double the amount of work per machine over any now in use, and having the advantage of procuring paper at the lowest manufacturing rates, our facilities for the manufacture of Envelopes are such as to enable us to defy competition.

We propose to manufacture and keep on hand all the leading styles of Envelopes, of all grades and shades.

We invite a careful comparison of both goods and prices with those of Eastern manufacture, and feel confident we can make it an object to dealers to purchase our goods. Samples and price list will be sent on application.

This instrument is designed expressly for public and private SCHOOLS, PUBLIC HALLS, and small CHURCHES.

After having finished and sold over 30,000 MELODEONS, of our usual varieties, we found that something different was needed to meet the wants of Schools, Small Churches and Public Halls.

We think that we have succeeded in producing an instrument which is unrivaled in TONE, BRILLIANCY, COMPASS and (last, though not least,) CHEAPNESS. It has nearly double the volume of tone of our $150 Double Reed Melodeon, and this is produced by the greater capacity of BELLOWS and SOUNDING BOARD, in connection with a peculiar method of voicing the reeds.

The GRADUATED SWELL and DIVIDED SWELL are attached to this instrument, and we think the effect is superior to anything we have produced before. The advantages we claim for this instrument are—

1st. It has more compass than any other double reed instrument ever offered at the same price, the smallest being full four and a half octaves, which is the usual compass of the key boards of the largest organ; and the largest full five octaves.

2d. It has more volume of tone than any reed instrument ever offered to the public at double the price.

3d. It has two stops, by means of which the tone can be modulated to suit all occasions.

4th. It has the "DIVIDED SWELL," which is only to be found in Melodeons of our manufacture.

5th. It has the "GRADUATED SWELL," which is admitted to be the most desirable improvement ever added to Melodeons, and which is patented by us, and used exclusively in our instruments.

6th. It has the "IMPROVED VALVE," (or pallet,) being a combination of cloth and leather, insuring the durability of the instrument, and long needed as a substitute for the "India rubber valve," which has caused so much trouble by the dissolving and sticking of the rubber.

7th. It has the "BASSO TENUTO" or Sub Bass, for full description of which see next page.

Finally, It exactly meets the wants of those for whom it was intended.

(See advertisement on the other side.)

A MUSICAL NOVELTY.

The Basso Tenuto, or Sub Bass.

PATENTED JUNE 24, 1862.

GEORGE A. PRINCE & CO.

Respectfully announce that they have now perfected and ready to offer to the musical world, a new and important invention as an attachment to their celebrated Melodeons, which needs only to be seen and heard to be appreciated. The new attachment is styled "THE BASSO TENUTO," and is intended as a substitute for the PEDAL BASS. It is the invention of Mr. Lafayette Louis, an accomplished Musician, who has, for a valuable consideration, assigned the entire right, title and interest in the same to the undersigned. A patent has been granted us, and hereafter all our Melodeons of five or more octaves, will be furnished with this attachment without extra charge. This most novel and desirable improvement will be found only in our Melodeons, as we shall sell no rights to other manufacturers.

The newly invented "BASSO TENUTO" will, from its extreme simplicity, commend itself to all lovers of the Melodeon, as it forms a complete substitute for the "Sub Bass," without the use of the foot pedals.

By drawing a stop, a very simple device is brought in connection with the under side of the lower octave of the key board, (entirely out of sight,) and while this stop remains drawn, any key in the lower octave being pressed, remains down, and the note continues to sound until another key in the same octave is struck, when the first is relieved, and the second sounds in its turn, thus enabling the performer to retain or continue at will any bass note, without the use of foot pedals, while both hands are left free to be occupied upon the upper part of the key board, thus getting double the quantity of tone, and producing effects like the Church Organ. When the "Sub Bass" is not wanted the stop is pushed in, and the keys are relieved from its influence.

The Pedal Bass, as heretofore made by us with foot pedals, will still be attached to our large Organ Melodeons.

PRINCE & CO.'S GRADUATED SWELL.

PATENTED SEPT. 17, 1861.

This is an entirely new idea, and its want has been noticed by all acquainted with reed instruments. The old swell could never be made to operate gradually; the instant the pedal was touched for opening it, the change would be instantaneous and abrupt.

Our New Swell is constructed on Scientific Principles,

And we are satisfied, by our untiring study and experiment, that it is the only one by which the tone of reed instruments may be graduated from a mere whisper to the full power of the instrument, and vice versa. The volume of tone is also very much increased by this swell, and is now all that we could desire.  No other Melodeon has this improvement.

This, in connection with our "DIVIDED SWELL," (which we patented in 1855,) will be added to all the Melodeons which we now manufacture without extra charge. Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers, not only in the United States, but in the world.

We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of 1847, and since that time have finished and sold over THIRTY-THREE THOUSAND.

These instruments are now in use mostly in the United States and Canada; but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, and the West Indies, and from all quarters we have the flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

At all Industrial Exhibitions they have invariably been awarded the highest premium whenever exhibited in competition with others.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of FIVE YEARS from date of sale, we hold ourselves ready and willing to make such repairs free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design.

SINGER'S Family Sewing Machines

WITH ALL THE NEW IMPROVEMENTS.

BEAUTIFULLY FINISHED, AND IN CASES OF EVERY IMAGINABLE DESIGN.

We call particular attention to the peculiar merits of these machines

FOR FAMILY USE!

As Sewing Machines, people generally assert that for manufacturing purposes our machines are superior, but that they will not do the fine work that is required in almost every family. We trust all parties desiring a Sewing Machine for their family, will not accept such statements until, at least, they have called at our Rooms and

THOROUGHLY TESTED THESE MACHINES,

Upon every variety of work, from the finest to the coarsest. We know that these machines are adapted to a greater range of work than any other in market. They are simple, durable, easily operated, not liable to get out of order, and when in operation are not noisy,—facts which are attested by thousands of families who now have them in use.

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR MANUFACTURING MACHINES

IS ACKNOWLEDGED BY ALL.

Tailors, Boot and Shoe, Harness and Carriage Manufacturers, Etc., Etc.

Will find just the machine they require, by calling at our Warerooms.

A large stock of Singer & Co.'s

Unrivalled Twist, Linen Thread, Cotton, Needles, &c., &c.

Constantly on hand.

The Singer Manufacturing Company.

J. S. DAWLEY, Agent.
